

California Adventure

You moved with your family to Los Angeles. Your parents are out for a night at the opera. It is your first night alone at home. Suddenly you hear a noise and someone locks the door of your room from the outside. You hear a loud voice: „I locked you in your room, and I know you have no phone with you. Don't try to call police while I steal your stuff!“ You remember you have a Key somewhere in your room...but where is it? You remember that you wrote it down in a file on your computer. Unfortunately your file is password protected. You don't know it, but there is information all over the room. Can you find out the password to get the key and call the police?

Find out the password and call the police...
